Gentlemen—The piano has had an eventful career in some ways as any in Japan, I suppose. The steamer it came on was captured and held some weeks by the Chinese. On arriving late in Japan it had to be transported over sundry railroads, and at last carted on a hand-cart 70 miles over two high mountain ranges by terribly bad roads. Since then it has passed a cold winter and hot summer, both terribly damp. In spite of that, and the fact that it has not been tuned since leaving your warehouse, it retains its pitch and tone delightfully.
Yours very truly,

THE CUBAN REBELLION.
WEYLER OUT-MANOEUVRED.
ADVANCE ON HAVANNAH.
BURNING OF NINE VILLAGES.
EXCITEMENT IN SPAIN.
GREAT MILITARY PREPARATIONS.

New York, 6th.—The rebels have outmanoeuvred General Weyler, who thought he had them in a corner and could force them to a pitched battle. Maceo and Gomez have dodged the Spanish General and their forces have advanced again into the vicinity of Havana, pillaging, and burning everything before them.
In Pinar del Rio the patriots burned down nine villages.

Telegrams of official source announce a fresh defeat of Maceo, with a loss of 25 men only, although the engagement lasted several hours.

General Weyler has prohibited the sale of petroleum in the interior of Cuba, and the merchants of Cienfuegos have cancelled all their orders for merchandise in the United States.

In Prince Town, New Jersey, the news from Spain has caused great indignation. A mob of students, imitating those of Barcelona, sallied forth to the street with the Spanish flag which they tore to shreds and also burnt an effigy of King Alfonso of Spain.

Washington, 6th.—After a lengthy debate the Senate Committee decided to accept the resolution in the form sent back by the Representatives with regard to the Cuban question. Senator Sherman spoke for the Committee and urged an immediate vote, but the House protested against this haste and put the vote off till Monday. It is believed that the Senate will pass the resolution.

It is stated that in an interview to-day with the Spanish Minister Dupuy de Lome, President Cleveland promised that the United States would refrain from meddling in Cuban affairs.

Madrid, 6th.—Great popular meetings have taken place in Valladolid and Granada to spur the Government into a more energetic policy.

The Spanish press exult over the friendly articles in the French and English papers.

A Royal Order was issued to day naming the Duke of Tetuan Minister of State vice the Marquis of Enduayen, who resigned. The Duke took the oath and his post this morning.

Valencia, 6th.—The students here organized a rowdy meeting and attacked the American Consulate. The police put an end to the disturbance.

In the Cadiz arsenal military preparations are going on in feverish haste—all the work is centred in turning out guns and ammunition.

France

Paris, 6th.—The Figaro of this morning says that now that Crispi has fallen all reason for animosity between France and Italy has vanished, and it looks for a speedy renewal of cordial relations between the two countries.

As had been expected, the Budget-Committee of the Deputies presented to-day its report on the income-tax recommending that the impost should not be levied. This decision was arrived at almost by unanimity.

An official denial has been given to the report published by several papers to-day to the effect that a number of horned cattle had been attacked by mouth-disease.

Marseilles, 6th.—The president of the Republic arrived here this afternoon from Cannes. An immense crowd headed by the principal officials of the Department was waiting at the station to welcome M. Faure who was escorted to the Town-hall amid the shouts of "Vive Felix Faure", "Vive la Republique". To-night a grand banquet is to be given in honour of the First Magistrate of the Republic.

Germany

Berlin, 6th.—The rumour of the probable resignation of the Chancellor Prince Hohenlohe, is again afloat. It is said that he will retire into private life the moment the most important Bills now before the Reichstag have been passed.

Austria

Vienna, 6th.—The Chancellor Count Goluchowsky will, it is said, leave on Monday for Berlin, in order to consult with the Emperor William and Count Hohenlohe respecting the present situation created by the reverses suffered by Italian arms in Africa.

Switzerland

Berne, 6th.—The police arrested here this morning three Italians who were preaching Anarchy amongst the working classes. Letters and revolutionary bulletins were found on them. They will be expelled from the Confederation.

Russia

St. Petersburg, 6.—The Emperor received the French Ambassador, Count Montebello, to-day and honoured him with an hour's conversation, thanking France for the attention shown to his brother George, the Czaritch, since his arrival at La Turbie, where his health is slowly improving.

Italy

Rome, 6th.—An important manifestation is being organized for this evening to ask the Government to bring the African campaign to an immediate close. Both Senators and Deputies as well as the opposition papers will take part in this procession which in perfect order will march to the Capitol to petition the King to satisfy the popular wish. The majority of the people is now, decidedly opposed to Signor Crispi's colonial policy.

The Ministerial crisis continues. The King has all day been receiving the political leaders and consulting with them respecting the present state of affairs in Africa; but so far has entrusted to no one the formation of a new Ministry. Great excitement prevails in Parliamentary circles and it is feared that serious riots may occur if the present uncertainty be not brought to an end.

Three hundred arrests were made last night during the manifestation. The majority of those taken prisoners were released to-day.

A telegram from General Baldissera states that it is impossible to succour the beleaguered garrison of Adigrat. The news has created a sensation as a fresh defeat is feared.

A great part of the Press throughout the Peninsula throws the blame of the late disasters on Signor Crispi.

The losses at the battle of Adua are now calculated at 4500 officers and men killed.

The death of Dabormida is confirmed. Albertone was seen to fall wounded. Nothing is known about the fate of Arimondi. Colonel Galliano, the defender of Makallé and 400 companions are prisoners in the Abyssinian camp.

Later—The popular procession to the Capitol took place this evening in perfect order.

ITALIAN IRON-CLADS AND ITALIAN MINISTERS

ATTACKS ON THE Prensa

Santiago, Chile, 6th.—The organ of the Minister of Foreign Affairs takes to task in a moderate article the Chilophobia of the Buenos Aires Prensa, which wishes to settle the Limits Question on its own responsibility without the help of Government or Ministers.

The Valparaiso papers have taken up the same topic, as if a "mot d'ordre" had been sent round.

The Chilean Press in general are much riled by the partiality that Italy is displaying towards Argentina. The hand of the Italian Government is traced in the recent large armaments of the Argentine Government. Some papers comment very acrimoniously on this topic, and actually charge the Italian Minister in Buenos Aires with an unblushing interference in all Argentine military preparations.

One paper states that the Chilean Government has brought all its influence to bear on the Italian Government, and to express the surprise felt in Chile at the conduct of Count Antonelli in Buenos Aires!!!

The Porvenir asserts that the new negotiations for the settlement of the Boundary Difficulty will be concluded this week.

Exchange is stationary in Valparaiso at 17 s.d.

THE CRISIS IN ITALY.

DISTURBANCES IN MILAN.

THE FUTURE CABINET.

ADIGRAT IN DANGER.

Rome, 6th.—It is expected that a group of the Right will make a motion in the Parliament urging the Government to abandon the Eritrea Colony, as its maintenance is too great a strain on Italy's resources and contrary to her interests.

In political circles it is expected that the following will be the composition of the new Cabinet:—

Ricotti—War
Brin—Marine
Sonnino—Finance and Visconti Venosta and Saracco.

The friends of Crispi offer to support a cabinet that includes Saracco. In other quarters efforts are being made to get up a Rudini cabinet.

The latest news from the seat of war is that Colonel Galliano did not fall at Adua, but was made a prisoner by the Abyssinians.

LATER.

Rome, 6th.—The Popolo Romano startled the public to-day with a telegram from its correspondent at the seat of war, stating that the troops of the Negus have surrounded the Italian garrison at Adigrat. The same message announces that the Italian column in Adigrat have only provisions for three days. Another Ambagi disaster is dreaded.

The latest news from the Palace is that Rudini, Ricotti, Colombo and Brin will form the new Cabinet.

Milan, 6th.—Serious disturbances broke out again to-day and assumed the proportions of a great riot. The mob attacked, seized, and entrenched the railway station. The police had to be supported by a regiment of the line, and after a pitched battle the rioters were dislodged. Over sixty men were wounded, and some are reported dead. In Parma excitement ran also very high. Troops had to be called out to put down disorder: the mob stoned some of the troops; these fired volleys in the air and order was re-established.

Queen Victoria has sent a note of sympathy to King Humbert expressing her sincere condolence at the melancholy march of affairs in Abyssinia.

WHERE IS NORTH CANTERBURY?

The sale of River Plate mutton as New Zealand meat in the English markets has given rise to a rather amusing geographical dispute. The matter has been brought before the English courts, as the dodge of the English butcher is to call all River Plate mutton now North Canterbury Mutton, dropping all mention of New Zealand. No one in England, Ireland, or Scotland can affirm that there is no "North Canterbury" in the River Plate. There may be some estancia in the Pampa Central, or in some of the partidos of Entre Rios or Buenos Aires of that name, and hence it is difficult for the courts to interfere. Purchasers of the mutton of course suppose that they are buying the famous North Canterbury mutton of New Zealand, and when they find out their mistake there is a row in the butcher's shop.

In New Zealand there is the greatest indignation at this trick of the English butcher to palm off on the English public the River Plate mutton as prime Canterbury New Zealand, and steps are being taken to try and stop the fraud, but so far from succeeding, it seems from advices received by the last mail that they have started The North Canterbury Meat Co. in Southport, where they have opened splendid premises, and nobody in New Zealand knows anything of the Company. It is said to be connected with the Messrs. Eastmans, whose extraordinary cheap New Zealand mutton is selling at York, Scarborough, Brighton and Liverpool at 4d. per lb. retail, while New Zealand mutton was fetching 4½d. per lb. wholesale in the markets for entire carcasses.

Some people insist that a good deal of the meat now offered at Southport has come from some Canterbury in South America but certainly did not come from Canterbury in New Zealand.

Then again at Blackburn, Messrs James Nelson and Sons Ltd., have placarded that town with big bills headed

Sudden death of large profits

Prime Canterbury mutton 3d. to 4d. per lb. do do neck and breast 1d. to 2d. do The agent or representative of New Zealand demands how this Canterbury mutton can be sold at these prices, when the price wholesale in London by the carcass is 4½— and the only explanation possible is that this new cheap Canterbury mutton comes from some Canterbury in the Plate where the mutton is much cheaper than in New Zealand.

So many new estancias have been started within the last few years in Rio Cuarto, Cordoba and along the Pacific R.R. and on the Colorado and in the Pampa Central and down by Chubut, Desado etc. that it is possible there is some estancia called "North Canterbury." We have looked through the last edition of our River Plate Handbook but cannot find the name. Meanwhile should any of our readers know of any such place or establishment in the Plate, he would confer a favor on the butchers of Scarborough and Southport by advising them before they are shut up by a judge's order. As regards the chilled beef trade of New Zealand which last year threatened to be such a formidable opponent in the English market to River Plate beef, a correspondent gives the following:—

"I fear the bottom has dropped out of the chilled beef trade so far as New Zealand is concerned. At any rate, the ss. Gothic has given it up after the last experiment. The thermotat and the chilled room appliances have been removed from the Gothic, the reason given being that, owing to the excessive difficulty and cost of collecting bullocks in New Zealand suitable for chilling, the expenses are too heavy and the thing won't pay."

"The Rakai's Queensland experiment failed because she was detained so long "in transitu," her latest passage from Brisbane to London occupying as much as seventy days. The chilled beef travelled all right at a temperature of 80 deg. Fah. for forty days, the length of the Gothic's passage, and even a week later it seemed quite sound. But on the forty-ninth day there were unmistakable signs that it was "beginning to go," and so it was at once frozen, too late, however, to save it entirely. Consequently it has been sold at a lower price than it would have fetched had it been carried all the way frozen."

THE STANDARD BOOKSHELF.

KAFIR STORIES.

(By W. C. Scully.)

"Not too soon and not too late, But just in time!"

as the Music Hall ditty states the case, comes this little work in Mr. Fisher Unwin's Autonym Library. The title is so unassuming that one is apt to take the book up and lay it down again, soliloquizing that things of Kafirs cannot be of any great interest to one on this side of the Atlantic; but anybody who watches the historical events of the day, as they unroll themselves in the various parts of this globe of ours, and who has of late given his attention to South African affairs, will not only take up the book to peruse it on account of its dealing with the doings of the natives of the South African dominions, but will enjoy the various stories with unalloyed interest, because they have emanated from the pen of an author who has everything in his favor when he tells stories of places and peoples whom one must have seen and known to faithfully describe them. Mr. Scully "has been there himself," that is evident to the reader who knows South Africa, and the very first story, "The Eumenides in Kafirland" proves what any of the late Captain Marryat's stories prove to the sea-faring reader, namely that the man has not gathered his ideas from books, but has derived them on the spot of the scenes he describes. The "moving accidents by flood and field" are told in a simple enough manner, but the very simplicity of this style of relating blood-curdling events harmonises with the disposition of the native races of whom the book tells, who look upon combats and bloodshed, upon long weary marches with their accompaniment of starvation and bleeding limbs, and who will face death even, with an amount of stoicism which commands the admiration of the braves of the brave men of European descent who have come into contact with the Kafirs.

Of the seven stories contained in the book, five only deal exclusively with natives, and the author gives ample proofs how thoroughly he understands the native ways of looking upon, speaking about and dealing with their African neighbours and the, to them always enigmatical beings, the Europeans, the "Molungas". I must confess that the book has had a strange, a weird effect upon me. It has always been my habit to gather information of the mode of thinking of the various native races whom it has been my good fortune to meet, and when I found myself in Natal, many years ago, in fact when I was but a boy of some seventeen years of age, I used to pass evening after evening, surrounded by a crowd of Kafir boys, i.e. young, unmarried men, from whom I extracted accounts of the doings of their people at the "Kraal", as they used to vaguely call their homes, and I heard them relate just such stories as Mr. Scully tells and in a manner which resembles Mr. Scully's style to a very great extent, proving that that gentleman has caught the spirit of the stories as well as of those who relate them on the spot.

But the book contains two stories which will be interesting even to the man or woman who do not care for South Africa, and its people, "The Fundamental Maxim" is a tale of the unavoidable events which take place when young coloured men have been educated among Europeans, have shipped off the savagery of their forefathers with their primitive dress and put on the airs and thoughts of a European with the European garments in which they are seen. Such a young Kafir must meet his fate in the shape of a young, kind, charming Missionary girl and when he finds response in her heart for the burning love that has welled up in his own, but sees that a young, attractive looking clergyman has conquered and hears him speaking with contempt of the natives, their dark skin and savage ways—then comes the catastrophe.

But story No. 3, "Kellson's Nemesis" is the most tragical of all. A Mr. Kellson is a specimen of the typical Cape Colony Government servant. When a young man, he has been employed in some minor capacity at a small up-country town, and after an absence of twenty odd years, during which time he has made his career, he is sent back again in the capacity of chief magistrate. Mr. Kellson has meanwhile married, but no offspring has blessed his union with a wife who is lightly sketched as not the "ideal", but rather a woman of peevish fretful disposition, for ever grieving over her disappointment and her home, where no baby voice has ever been heard. So whilst Mr. Kellson takes up his position in his former district, Mrs. Kellson has a run home to see her parents, and Mr. Kellson is not sorry. He arrives quietly as one of the passengers of the "Stage Coach" which forms the connecting link between the far-off railway station and his village, takes up his home temporarily at the old hotel, which does not seem to have altered a bit since he last lived in it, over twenty years ago, and has a ramble over the place in which he spent several years of his youth and in which what we call "sowing wild oats" has been performed by him to a considerable extent.

On the following morning he quietly steps up to the Court House, introduces himself and takes his seat on the bench to adjudicate upon the various cases of drunkenness and petty theft that are brought before him by the police. The last case is that of a young fellow whose face shows that he is almost a pure European, only slightly tinged with the tar-brush of remote native descent.

The young man is proved to be a bad egg altogether. He has committed some crime or other, and it is clearly proved that he has spent his young years alternately in committing similar crimes and expiating for them in the local jail. Mr. Kellson glances at the young vagabond in the dock, and whether it is the unmistakably handsome face, in spite of its look of dissipation, or the long account of the lad's evil deeds, at any rate he observes and is haunted by a something in his features, or perhaps in the strange stare in his eyes that reminds him vaguely of something he has seen somewhere, and of which he cannot account to himself.

The lad's name is John Brink, a name common enough among people of Dutch descent, and this gives him no clue. Upon the merits of the case, and taking into consideration the young fellow's bad antecedents he condemns him to two years' imprisonment and "thirty-six lashes," according to the "Extended Jurisdiction Act," and then he leaves the bench and strolls up to what is to be his future residence, and which has been hastily put in order for him. When night sets in, and he is quite alone, musing over old times and old rums, he hears the grating of wheels along the lonely road leading past his house, a wagon halts in front of his door, and in a few seconds he hears a timid knock. Kellson goes to the door, opens it, and there stands a woman, a faded, meek woman whose eyes show that she has been crying, crying long and bitterly. Kellson scans her features and at first has to acknowledge that he does not recognise her, but when she says "I am Rachel, sir, Rachel Arends; that was, but I married Martin Brink, the blacksmith, soon after—soon after you left, sir, twenty-four years ago!"

And then Kellson turns sick at heart. Here comes the ghost of a sin of long ago, which has put on flesh and blood to haunt him. It is horrible. Rachel comes to beg of him to alter the sentence he pronounced upon the lad, a few hours ago. "For he is my son," says Rachel, "and—Oh Sir—he is yours!"

So the fact dawns upon him that he has sentenced his own flesh and blood to be flogged by some Kafir hangman, who will glory in laying on the lash heavily upon his almost white victim. His own son, born in sin and shame.

What was denied him in his legal marriage, for what the wife of his respectable union craved, has been given to him by the woman with whom he tasted the sweets of sin, long ago. And this, his only child is a worthless neardowell, and he is to taste the lash, at the command of his own father.

"Save him, save him from the flogging," she says hoarsely "he is your son."

And thereupon Kellson—but my readers will learn all about it if they buy the book, which is on sale at Mr. Jacobson's and costs only a very trifle.

What one is reminded of in perusing the book at length is the fact that native races, so-called savages, have a code of morals, a standard of honor, which compares favorably with those of our vaunted civilization. And indeed, he who has had experience of the native races of South Africa knows that they are good trustworthy, honest people as long as they are kept away from the baneful influence of the rum shop and the missionaries, for either is fatal to them. There is as much dependence to be placed upon the word of a Zulu who comes fresh from his native kraal as there is upon the word of the ordinary, unsophisticated European who has some principle in him, and a Zulu is much less liable to say one thing and mean another than the fraud who comes to you with some plausible story of which not one word is true, or the silly girl with her stereotyped giggle and empty head, who talks and grins and makes promises which she has not the faintest idea of keeping, but backs out by telling you she could not think what made her say so, and that she forgot to ask her Ma.

And still the black man will have to go, and some class of white man will take his place.

The book does not contain one solitary allusion to the New Woman, or the Monroe Doctrine, or the Emperor William of Germany, for which blessing heaven and the author Mr. Charles Scully, be truly thanked.

CURRENT NOTES ON ANTHROPOLOGY.

RESEARCHES IN SOUTH AMERICAN LANGUAGES.

From the rich field of South American linguistics several valuable products have lately been gleaned.

That deserving of the first mention is the narrative of a journey across the Cordillera from Chill eastward, recited in the Huilliche dialect of Araucania. It was carefully taken down by Dr. Rodolfo Lenz and is printed in the "Anales de la Universidad de Chile," Tomo XC. The text, with a literal translation into Spanish covers 22 pages, and is the first specimen we have, not only in this dialect but in Araucanian, proceeding from the uneducated lips of a native. It is a model of the manner in which such a piece of work should be accomplished and presented.

The question of the Catamarcan language is again attacked by S. A. Lafone Quevedo in the "Anales de la Sociedad Científica Argentina," Tomo XXXIX in an article of 95 pages. He aims to demonstrate from proper names that it is not Kechuan in its affinities. His arguments are drawn from a full investigation of existing fragments of the tongue, and though not conclusive, make an able plea.

A careful vocabulary of the Guana from two independent sources, is published by the Reale Accademia dei Lincei (Rome) this year, the memoir being from the pen of the artist traveler Guido Boggiani.

A short vocabulary of the Angagueda dialect of the Choco obtained in June last by Mr. H. G. Granger is edited with comparative words by me in the proceedings of the American Philosophical Society for November.

To these must be added a valuable contribution on the language of the Akua (Chavantes, Cherentes), by Dr. Paul Ehrenreich in the Zeitschrift für Ethnologie 1895, Heft IV; and several vocabularies from the Orinoco district, published by Dr. A. Ernest, of Caracas, in the American Anthropologist for October, 1895.

ELEPHANT HUNTING IN SOMALI LAND.

It has been said, and said truly, that elephant hunting is a sport fit for a King, but it is equally true that few Kings are fit for the sport. I am afraid, that most of the portly monarchs of the nineteenth century would have rather a bad time of it, and that the gigantic pachyderms would have most of the fun to themselves. Since the days of Nimrod, many mighty hunters have been sent to the happy hunting grounds by the lordly elephant, and thither the writer has nearly been sped on more than one occasion to join the same good company of braves away beyond, in the great unknown. At one time this branch of the chase had an attraction which made time, money and most of the other pleasures of life seem insignificant in comparison with it. Some years ago I was hunting along the base of the Abyssinian highlands, in Somali land, and the land of Aphir. This belt of country, skirting the foot of the mountains, is a sportsman's paradise. In many parts of Africa I have seen more game, but no other spot with the same facilities for hunting. Fairly decent horses are obtainable, and the camel, in spite of its uncanny eccentricities, is the perfection of a transport animal for dry countries. This strip of lowland between the desert and the hills has rather a park-like aspect. Turbulent streams dash from rock to rock through wild gorges in the hills, and generally lose themselves in the sandy beds of watercourses in the plains. Two exceptions to this rule are the cases of the river Hawash which flows to the north-west, and the Erar river and other tributaries of the Webbi, flowing east to the Zambiar coast. In the way of vegetation varied species of cactus are common, and in some places impenetrable thickets of milk-bush occur. Low spreading trees are to be seen everywhere dotted about the landscape, in some localities forming belts of jungle. Through these wilds the elephants roam at will, sometimes ascending one of the passes for the purpose of having a nocturnal picnic in a native cornfield. On one occasion I went out for a day with a grim old warrior named Boh Teen, an Isa Somali. We rode for several days without finding the game we sought for. Birds rising in front or flying to the left or right are regarded as good or bad omens. Several times in the course of the morning my companion told and retold his beads with a view to getting a glimpse into futurity, and the fortunes of the hunt. Evidently what he saw did not cheer him, for when we finally came upon our game he incontinently scooted. Towards midday we discovered the fresh tracks of a herd of elephants. Following the tracks up we soon came in sight of them. The huge animals—unconscious of the presence of a foe—were quietly wrenching off the tender shoots from the low-spreading mimosa. It was a scene for an artist. The colossal forms of the elephants grouped under the trees, the white tusks gleaming against the dark green foliage, the light blue sky with the sunlight quivering through the clear atmosphere. And away in the background, the grand old hills lifting up their heads to heaven. A breath of wind, and the scene was transformed. A fine instinct warned them that the tainted air betokened the presence of a foe. The huge ears were spread out, and every eye was turned towards me. Then they shambled off. Now for the hunt. A touch of the spurs, and we are off in hot pursuit. We soon overtake the herd, a few more bounds and we get alongside. Then, in response to the crack of a rifle and a puff of smoke, one of the bulls turned and faced us, to get satisfaction for a bullet in the shoulder. Screaming with rage, with ears spread out and trunk twirling in the air, he charged down upon us like an incarnate fiend. The forehead shot being ineffective with the African elephant, there was no alternative but to turn tail to the enemy and bolt. He soon relinquished the pursuit, and followed the herd. Once more I rode up beside him, and again the bullet tore through his shoulder. The only result was a more furious charge.

Another shot brought the scene to a close. He reeled from side to side in a peculiar manner, only known to hunters. And then fell over on his side.

A few days later I passed this spot, and all that remained of the tons of flesh was the cleanly picked bones and a few scraps of skin. Hundreds of vultures sat around, some in the trees near by, and others on the ground, too much gorged to fly. Scores more were sailing around in circles above the spot. Whether to enjoy the scene from a bird's eye point of view, in way of a frolic born of after dinner complacency, or to palliate the remorse of a guilty stomach, I know not. Returning homewards I was rejoined by my transient companion. Near the village quite a procession came to meet us. Old Habeeb chanted an extemporaneous rhapsody in honour of the white hunter who killed the marudi. The reminiscence recalls once more the fact that one half of the world has not the remotest conception of how the other half lives. Even now I am not certain that the patriarchal life of the people of the desert is not the happiest. The irresistible impulse they have given to civilisation on more than one occasion is a matter of history.

LORD DUNRAVEN.

To the Editor of the STANDARD,

Dear Sir,—

Under the heading "Lord Dunraven" in your issue of 4th March inst. you say some things that many do not believe are warranted by the facts; still, there is only one statement that I care to enter into a dispute about, and that is, the statement that he (Lord Dunraven) has been "most unjustly deprived of his membership in the New York Yacht Club."

When Lord Dunraven brought his charges against the Defender, for which Mr. Iselin of the New York Club was responsible, it was at once recognized by all that they were so mean "and dirty," when applied to an honorable gentleman such as Mr. Iselin, that any failure to prove them would of necessity result in the expulsion of the person making them from the New York Yacht Club, and if they were proven, then Mr. Iselin would be expelled not only from the New York Yacht Club, but every other gentlemen's club of which he was a member. Hardly had the basis of the charges been made public, when one of the best known authorities in Great Britain, showed that as simple a thing as the berthing of two or three men on the opposite side of the yacht from that which they were usually berthed on would cause all the alteration in her time noticed.

Lord Dunraven went to New York, made his statements before the special committee appointed to investigate them, put in his evidence, utterly failed to prove his charges, was let down in an easy and most gentlemanly way by that committee, in its report, was given every chance to say he had made a mistake by both the committee and the Club, failing which the club found it necessary to protect Mr. Iselin's and their good name and expel Lord Dunraven.

I enclose an editorial article from the Yachtsman of 6th February which is pertinent to this subject, and hope that you will find room in your columns to publish those parts of it that are marked.

Yours respectfully,

Bostonian.

The Finance Minister has refused the petition of the Southern Railway that the stay put on the despatch of articles for it, owing to the wharfage dues which it refuses to pay, be removed.

The Finance Minister has refused to waive the import duties on the materials imported at Corrientes for the Primer Correntino Railway.

The National Railway Board has asked the Minister of the Interior to ask the Financial Sphinx to remit the import duties on 100 waggons imported for the Western of Santa Fe Railway.

The Minister of the Interior has approved the outlay of $1,100 for taking the inventory of and handing over to Engineer Guillermo Dominico of the Dean Funes and Chilceto and Chumbicha and Catamarca lines.

THEATRES.

Frank Brown will not be able to make his debut to-night as promised, owing to the late arrival of some of the principal members of his Company.

At the Zarzuela next week, La Bella Geraldina will make her appearance as a rifle shot. In this she will be assisted by her brother.

At the Comedia to-night will be given that excellent drama "Juan José." This will be for the last time, and is at the request of very many of the frequenters of the theatre. Also will be given "De Madrid a Paris" in which the three principal actresses, Sra. Garcia and Señoritas Golobardas and Alcalde will take part, and sing the "tercetas de las cigarreras."

LA PLATA.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

March 6th

The Chamber of Deputies held to-day no sitting nor is it likely that they will do so this month.

The elections on Sunday both here and throughout the Province promise to be warmly contested.

The popular manifestation of condolence with Italy will to-morrow be a grand affair. The Italian societies will take part in it with flags draped in black. The procession will march to the Italian Consulate where a speech is to be delivered by Mr. Edelmiro Calvo.

The Engineers Department is to ascertain what repairs are requisite in the Cañada de la Cruz Bridge on the road from Pilar to San Antonio de Areco.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The "bel paese" and its sore dilemma in Africa again absorbed the attention of this cosmopolitan community yesterday. In fact, but for the senseless and unpatriotic rioting in the Italian cities, one might have imagined that Buenos Ayres was one of them, so sad was the impression caused by the news that the garrison of Adigrat, with provisions for only three days, is surrounded by hordes of Abyssinians, and there is no chance of saving it. The shock of this fresh bad news was somewhat mitigated for our Italian friends by the intelligence that the gallant Colonel Galliano, the hero of Makalle, was not killed at Adua, but is a prisoner in the enemy's hands. General matters in town were terribly dull: not a spark of fun or liveliness anywhere. In Bahia Blanca they were more fortunate, as they had a mild shock of earthquake at a place called Bravo de Dos. It knocked down part of a wall, and also tumbled the Connecticut wooden clock and several pictures from the wall of the telegraph office. No other harm done.

Mrs. Achaval and daughters have arrived up from Mar del Plata. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Drysdale left last evening for the Bristol. There are so few families at Mar del Plata now that the hotels are half empty, although the weather now is infinitely better for bathing than last February. Our Secretary, Dr. McNally, has sent us some few mementos of the Minister of War's trip, the grand breakfast at the Bristol given by Mr. Luro and Mr. Patrick Peralto Ramos, and also of the drive out to the light-house. One of the grandest sights of all was the bathing off the Rambla of the distinguished party. William, the English bath man, took them all in tow. Barrow was the only one in the crowd that could swim, but the waves were not high and there was very little danger. If the weather keeps on as hot as yesterday, our friend Mr. Barrow had better begin to run again his fast Mar del Plata trains.

Yesterday we received letters from our junior editor, who is in quarantine on Martin Garcia, and with the letters we received the Lost Ode, which we have read and scanned, and consider equal to anything ever written by Father Prout. We shall publish it next week, with a free translation, when the author arrives. The passengers hope to be out of quarantine on the 10th. The arrangements under Dr. Agote and Dr. Plaza are excellent and the passengers want for nothing.

Yesterday morning there was another funeral Mass at the little Portela Chapel, Caballito, for the repose of the soul of the late Don Juan Hughes. It was attended by the members of the family of deceased and the neighbours.

Respecting Mr. Beazley, our New Chief of Police, we are informed that his grandfather was a native of Carlow, Ireland, and was a well-known wool broker in the old "plazas" here in the days of Haughton

McCann, Dan Hayes and others. Mr. Beazley's father is still alive and hale and strong, and may be seen on the Bolsa every afternoon. One of the best Chiefs of Police Buenos Aires ever had was Mr. Henry O'Gorman, brother of Canon O'Gorman, and we feel quite confident that our new Chief of Police, Mr. Beazley, will prove a first rate officer and every way worthy of the high reputation of his Irish predecessor. It may interest a few of our readers to know that close by where Mr. Beazley's grandfather was born in the County Carlow, the far famed "Molly Ashtoro" was composed.

Ah, grass-a-three ma col-len oge, Shoo Beazley no store.

The state of some of the streets undergoing repairs and new levels is something truly awful. In Calle Corrientes they have lowered the side-walk to such an extent that the unfortunate residents have to climb on the top of old barrels and boxes to get into their houses. The whole street is under a sort of general let-down, and the wonder is that we never remarked before that the halle doors were six feet over the street's level. We remember in days that are long over that at Blues's corner of (Cangallo and 25 de Mayo, the shop door was about ten feet over the streets below, and at the corner in front there was a little cigar-shop where the side-walk overlooked a veritable precipice. Yesterday, a subscriber had to climb two wine boxes and an old barrel to get into a house in Calle Corrientes between Florida and 25 de Mayo.

It is really astonishing to see the list of families about to leave for Europe next month. Not even in the year 1888 were there more passengers booked than at the Royal Mail office now. We accept it as a good sign, as during the crisis years no one travelled, and we all remained at home. Now, however, all the rich native families are booking for Paris, and in May next the Hotel Scribe and Continental will be taxed to accommodate all the Argentine visitors.

Our old friend Mr. A. Campbell and his charming daughter Harriet have left for Europe. We wish them a pleasant trip and hope to see them soon back. Only a few months ago Miss Campbell was at death's door. She is, happily, now completely recovered.

We wept, sighed and groaned in spirit yesterday on receiving the following note from La Plata subscriber, and doubt if we shall ever recover the blow:—

"Dear old STANDARD,
"It is not often you make a mistake, but this time you have."

"It is not for the second time in the history of Buenos Aires the Chief of Police is an Irishman, or of Irish descent, which is the same thing."

"It is for the third time. Where was your memory when you forgot that bean ideal of a gentleman Dr. Daniel J. Donovan, one of the lights of the Argentine 'forum', as is his equally distinguished brother General Anthony Donovan in the army?"

Yours sincerely,

Erin-go Bragh.

Residents in the Southern suburbs are reminded of the Smoking Concert which takes place at the Lomas English Club at eight o'clock this (Saturday) evening, at which the papers and magazines for the current year will be sold by auction. A very pleasant evening is looked forward to.

The news from Chile yesterday was mixed-middling. While some of the papers are furious with the Prensa and with the distinguished Italian Minister here, Count Antonelli, the Porvenir declares that the whole boundary muddle will be settled before a week is about. May it prove so: but past experience of the Chilean Foreign Office does not tend to inspire very sanguine hopes.

The new cruiser Buenos Aires sailed from Newcastle yesterday for her adopted country, and will be here in three weeks. She is under the command of the gallant Captain Edelmiro Correa.

There is nothing like law, for those who are not litigants. The Minister of Justice made the following appointments yesterday to the Law Faculty Chairs:—
Administrative Law—Dr. E. Castro.
Commercial Law—Dr. P. Beracocha.
Constitutional Law—Dr. M. A. Montes de Oca.

Our round-the-corner Tenerife friends, Messrs. Morales and Co. scored a tremendous Tobaccoist victory yesterday, having received from the great cigarette firm of Cairo, Messrs. Acapulco and Co. their appointment as sole agents in the Plata for their world renowned Egyptian cigarettes, which are smoked by the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Dowager Empress of Russia, and all the other crowned heads of Europe.

It appears that Mr. Orlando of Leghorn, whose arrival we refer to in another paragraph, has come out here to treat for the building of still more warships for Argentina, in addition to the Varese, where is the Argentine navy going to stop?

A woman was caught yesterday in the very act of stealing a purse from another of her sex in the Florida market.

On Thursday night two foot-pads relieved a belated wanderer of his loose cash in Paseo de Julio between Tucuman and Lavalle.

The Minister of War has ordered all the troops belonging to the garrison to remain to-morrow in their respective barracks. We fancy this is not a precaution taken for any fear of election-risings, but is rather to prevent any gallant soldier from taking part in the elections.

Lieutenant Perez of the fire-brigade was yesterday ordered to be set at liberty, as the post-mortem examination on the body of the unfortunate lad Marchisano, shows that the bruises on his body were not the cause of death, which on the other hand was the result of lung-disease.

A raid was made yesterday by the police on a number of lottery agencies selling illicit tickets. The owners of the agency Victoria 436 took the interference so much to heart that they shut the police officer into an inner-room and then thrashed him.

The United States Consul desires information in regard to Mrs. Cora Lenihan, wife of William Lenihan, who a few years ago was residing in this city. An estate has been left her in California.

The Dublin papers announce the death of Mr. Pim, of the firm of Pim Brothers, one of the oldest "monster shops" in the capital of Ireland, where it has been a household word for three-quarters of a century.

The Lord bless the new Chief of Police. He has resolved to stamp out street begging and has already begun the good work by arresting the dirtiest of the thousands of impostors that infest the city. Bravo, Mr. Beazley.

A society dame is in trouble for attempting to poison a gay and gallant Lieutenant in the navy, to whom she took an illicit fancy; but he took no fancy to her, and hence the cup of cold poison.

Letters from Mar del Plata say that half the people there are trying to break the bank in the Bristol; but none of them have yet been able to even come near Dr. Synax in this line.

The victorious Port-wine Negus Menelik is determined to give Europe another proof of the civilization of his Government and people, and has applied at Bern for the admission of Abyssinia into the Red Cross Convention. There is evidently to be one native Power in Africa that will swagger it before long with the Great ones of Europe. The next thing, perhaps, will be a visit of the Emperor of Abyssinia to his "cousins", the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland and the Czar of all the Russias. He may also favour Emperor William, although the latter forgot to send him a Kruggergram of congratulation for the battle of Adua.

We feel very great pleasure in congratulating Dr. Michael O'Farrell and Miss Elena Ham, daughter of Mr. Patrick Ham, on their approaching marriage, wishing them a long and happy life. Dr. O'Farrell has secured one of the brightest ornaments of Hiberno-Porteno society.

Amongst the innumerable other fads of the close of the century, that of sleeping upside down—with the feet instead of the head on the pillow—is now coming into vogue in Europe. The scientific papers say that this position produces the most refreshing sleep, and, besides, is a cure for many diseases.

The case of the Italian cruiser Lombardía at Rio is one of the most shocking on record. Irrespective of the 130 officers and crew who have already died of yellow fever, she has a number on the sick list, and ten fresh cases were reported yesterday. The vessel must have been in a very unsanitary condition when she entered Rio.

We beg of the talented contributor who has favoured us with the beautiful original verses entitled "The Bottle of the Boyne," to consider himself warmly embraced, but we cannot find space to publish them as they are too long, and the pressure on our columns is worse than ever.

Amongst the distinguished arrivals from Italy in the Sirio is Engineer Orlando, one of the proprietors of the shipyard in Leghorn where the new Argentine iron-clad Varese is being built. handed over to the Argentine Government next month.

Amongst the passengers who left Montevideo, by the R. M. S. Magdalena was Mr. Frank Henderson, Manager of the Central Uruguay Railway, who goes home for a well-earned holiday of some six months. Mr. Henderson is accompanied by Mrs. Henderson and their family. On Tuesday evening Mr. Henderson was entertained at a modest farewell banquet at the Rotisserie Charpentier, offered by the heads of departments and chief employees of the Railway.

The yellow fever news yesterday was disagreeable. Two fresh cases were reported, one in Belgrano, a brother of Quatrecoqui, who died the other day, and another in the Men's Hospital. The corpses of James Fraser and Michael Tobin, who died on board the Floating Hospital, were cremated at Martin Garcia.

The good old custom of having a jollification on every event of life from the cradle to the grave is to be kept up with the new Chief of Police, Dr. Beazley, and his Secretary Mr. Varela Ortiz, to whom a grand banquet will be given about the middle of next week. The aristocratic Circulo de Armas is the mover in the hospitable case.

All the scientific and other wonders of the end of the century will be concentrated in the Paris Exhibition of 1900. Amongst these "maravillas" are:—A twentieth century Arc de Triomphe composed of foliage, presumably evergreen; an eruption of Mount Vesuvius, a round dozen hanging gardens of Babylon; a palace peopled with all the characters living, not, in wax) of the elder Dumas (might not John Bull send a Pickwick gallery?); a gold mine after nature; a mechanical man à la Frankenstein, sixteen feet high and capable of speech; the gliding from top to bottom of the Eiffel Tower; the projection of visitors from 300 to 1,000 yards into space and their return to terra firma in parachutes—time for the operation not stated; a palace to be devoted to the competitors for the prize of beauty, the creation of an aerial oasis, whatever that may mean; the New Jerusalem represented according to the Apocalypse; a "coup d'œil" from the moon, in other words, a lunar landscape from which the spectator surveys his own poor little globe and the adjoining luminaries in all their splendour; these "inter alia."

The Spanish-American nations, at least a good many of them, often give the world strange samples of their ideas of religion, but the following, for the truth of which the Continente Americano of the city of Mexico vouches, is the funniest mixture of humour and profanity we have yet seen. The document is archived in the public library of the city of Zacatecas in Mexico:—

"In the year 1810, moved by a terrible drought that had visited the agricultural districts of the Empire of Brazil, the chief alcalde of the town of Casthanas published the following decree:

I, the chief alcalde of Casthanas, in consideration of the fact that the Supreme Creator of all things has not committed himself in a becoming manner, towards this province and this town, seeing that during the whole of this past year there has not fallen one decent shower of rain, and that this winter, notwithstanding the processions, adorations, prayers, fasts and festivities, it has not rained once, and as, in consequence, there has been a complete failure of the crop of chestnuts upon which the prosperity of this state depends, I therefore decree and proclaim that:—

Art. 1st. If within eight days from the issuing of this decree it shall not have rained abundantly, no one shall go to Mass nor say prayers.

Art. 2. If the drought shall then continue eight days longer the churches and the chapels shall be burned, and missals, rosaries and every other article of devotion destroyed.

Art. 3. And lastly, if during a third period of eight days it shall not rain, all the priests, friars, monks, nuns and other zealots shall have their heads cut off.

And in the meantime every one is granted free and unrestrained permission to commit every class and kind of sin, in order that the Supreme Maker of all things may have a proper conception of the class of people with whom he has to deal.

Signed and sealed, etc."

FOLLET'S SYRUP

suppresses the pains or insomnia caused by Neuralgia, Gout, Migraine, Asthma, Cough, Fatigue of the brain, Nervous Irritation, Mental preoccupations, the heat of climate, etc. Follet's Syrup procures a deep sleep analogous to the normal sleep; its employment does not expose to any of the inconveniences of opium or of morphia.

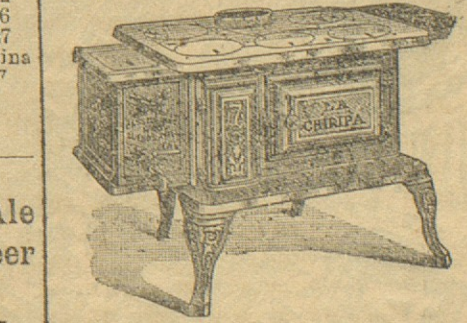

It is the best form for the administration of Chloral; its preservation is perfect and, thus prescribed, it does not irritate the stomach.

Follet's Syrup is sold in nearly all the pharmacies of all countries, and is prepared by the Firm of L. FAURE, A. CHAMPIGNY & Co, succrs, 19, rue Jacob, Paris, who obtained the highest recompense, gold medal, at the international Exhibitions of Sydney, Amsterdam, Paris, etc.

KEATING'S LOZENGES.

KEATING'S LOZENGES.
KEATING'S LOZENGES.

"A Simple Fact about" KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES. Ask through the world, in any country that can be named, you will find them largely sold. There is absolutely no remedy that is so speedy in giving relief, so certain to cure and yet so delicate can take them.

"A TERRIBLE COUGH."
"A TERRIBLE COUGH."

"94 Commercial Road, Peckham, July 12.
"Dear Sir,—I am a poor hand at expressing my feelings, but I should like to thank you. Your lozenges have done wonders in relieving my terrible cough. Since I had the operation of 'Tracheotomy' (the same as the late Emperor of Germany, and unlike him, thank God, I am still alive) performed at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, no one could possibly have had a more violent cough it was so bad at times that it quite exhausted me. The mucus, which was very copious and hard, has been softened, and I have been able to get rid of it without difficulty.—I am, sir, yours truly, J. HILL

UTTERLY UNRIVALLED.
UTTERLY UNRIVALLED.

The above speaks for itself. From strict inquiry it appears that the benefit from using Keating's Cough Lozenges is under stated. The operation was a specially severe one, and was performed by the specialist, Dr. H. I. Butlin, of St. Bartholomew's Hospital. Since the operation the only means of relief is the use of these Lozenges. So successful are they that one affords immediate benefit although from the nature of the case the throat irritation is intense.

WEIGHT IN GOLD.
WEIGHT IN GOLD.

Under date Sept. 8th, 1891, Mr. Hill again writes:—"I should long since have been dead but for your Lozenges—they are worth their weight in gold. I will gladly and tell anyone what a splendid cough remedy they are."

Keating's Cough Lozenges, the unrivalled remedy for Coughs, Hoarseness, and Throat Troubles, are sold in Tins and Bottles by all Chemists.

GUADAÑADORA MAC CORMICK

Ultimo Testimonio recibido

Señores Agar, Cross y Cia., Buenos Aires

Muy Señores míos

Con haber introducido en esta colonia su máquina rearmada MacCormick y á mas que en el día de la fecha para que sea mas completa con la nueva aplicación á la misma máquina del Cutter Bar Frames, he recibido un perjuicio de regular consideración y un beneficio que supera por grandemente al perjuicio. Así se lo manifesté verbalmente á su representante Sr. Jorge Winter. El perjuicio es que tengo muchas máquinas, segadoras de alfalfa y no sé que hará de ellas porque mis chacareros no quieren mas que MacCormick y el beneficio es que teniendo alfalfares sembrados expresamente con muchos granillos todavía no había encontrado máquina las cortara tan perfectamente como estas. Como en el año próximo cortaré mas de 2000 hectareas de alfalfa semilla y es allí donde se ven las buenas máquinas, les pediré algunas mas, según venga el corte semilla, este año necesitaré dos. En un concurso, quisiera ver como se puede probar que haya máquina que supere á esta.

Friday, March 6th 1896.
Gold Premium.

First Ring 201.80%
Second Ring 202.50%

The fizzle in the bearish speculation is becoming daily more apparent. The premium obstinately refuses to cross the Rubicon at 200% and the bears will have to throw very large amounts of gold on the market to put down the market and subdue its rebellious mood. It is quite clear that the big operators who made such splendid margins in the fall in gold do not care to continue the operation; in fact, they are far more inclined to turn round and buy the premium. About a million gold dollars changed hands during the first ring. Business for cash embraced three hundred thousand dollars; the premium opened at 201%, rose to 203%, and closed at 201.80%, firm. Three hundred thousand dollars were also sold for the end of the month; the premium opened at 204.20%, rose to 206%, and closed at 204.50%. Over one hundred thousand dollars were sold for to-morrow, the weekly settlement, the premium closing at 202%. Sixty thousand dollars were sold for the end of April, the premium closing at 208.50%. The market closed hard all round.

The news from London is that the Argentine boom is fizzling, the only stock that holds out being the Funding Loan. To judge by the telegraphic iteration of the pronounced weakness of National Cédulas F in the European market, we are inclined to think that the English and German buyers are eager to buy the stock, but the holders here are not eager to part with their Cédulas under 37. The stock and share business at the ring this morning was dead-and-alive. A few thousand National Cédulas F changed hands at 83 and 82.50, and a bagatelle in Funded Bonds of the Floating Debt at 81. All other stocks and shares were neglected this morning.

A telegram was received to-day announcing a fresh shipment of gold from London for Buenos Aires. At the banks they knew nothing of this consignment, which is no doubt a small amount. There is still a lingering weakness in exchange circles. A small business was reported to-day. The market closed at:— 48 1/2-5/16d on London.
5.05 1/2-5.09 fcs. on France.
5.09 1/2-5.10 fcs. on Belgium.
4.12 1/2-4.13 mks. on Germany.

The "degringolado" in Rio de Janeiro continues and the situation of that market is becoming daily more critical. To-day's telegrams announce the exchange rate down to 8 1/2. Telegrams from Valparaíso quote the rate on London at 17 1/2 d. Paper money shows the same tightness. Discounts at the banks continue hard at 8 1/2 to 9% for paper; gold bills are quite nominal, nothing doing.

The following is a summary of the business effected at the first ring to-day:—
$ 303,000 for cash at 301.301.30-301.20
50.302-302.50-302.50-303-303-302.50-70.50-30-302-302.20-302.802.10-302-301.80-302-301.80.
$ 288,000 March 31st at 304.20-304.50-305-305.50-306-305.50-305-304.50.

The cereal arbitration committee of the Bolsa had its first meeting yesterday, and constituted itself as follows: President, C. P. Rodriguez; vice President, Ernesto Baerwindt; Secretary, Benjamin Nogueras.

Rosario advices announce the deposits of the Cordoba and Rosario railway full up with sugar intended for export, so that it looks as if this business were about to expand.

According to cables received, 854 Argentine steers changed hands in Deptford market yesterday at 4 to 4 1/2 d, and 2,690 Argentine wethers at 5 1/2 d. The advice says that the fall in prices soon promises to touch bottom, and about time it did too, as if this run of rates became nominal Argentina would have to go out of the market altogether. As we have pointed out, the butchers took advantage of the glut and the regulations providing for the slaughter of animals at port where disembarked to lower their prices and keep them down, but if they are not amenable to reasonable rates they will soon find themselves in the vocative case.

At Concordia the produce season is reported over, and buyers all left for pastures new. Great demand for novillos for saladeros, as high as $11 gold offered. The farmers are gloating over the mortality in the locusts, which are dying off like flies; and it seems, though the cause of this mortality is not yet exactly determined, that it is due to some grub or worm that devotes itself exclusively to the extinction of the pest. Millions of locusts are found dead every day in the

ARRIVALS.

The following vessels arrived in the Roads to-day and were visited by the Port Doctor:

British ss. Ribston from Montevideo in ballast to Danon.
Do do Yarowdale from Antwerp with cargo to H. Brothers.
Do do Lucine from Rio Janeiro in ballast to Williams and Co.
German ss. Montevideo from Hamburg with 38 passengers and general cargo to Delino.
British bq. Primrose from Saint John with lumber to Drysdale.
Austrian bq. Horbia from Marseilles with g.c. to Boisduval.
Italian bq. Oterina Accame from Glasgow with coal to Bianchi and Co.

DEPARTURES.

German ss. Montevideo from Roads at Darsena to pass Docks to discharge.
British ss. Weybridge from Dock 1 for London with produce.
German ss. Arensburg from Dock 1 for Bremen with produce.

RIVER STEAMERS.

The Venus is expected to-morrow at South Basin from Montevideo.
The Comercio is expected to-morrow from Salto and intermediate ports.
The Venus will sail for Montevideo to-morrow.

GENERAL.

Government has granted packet privileges to the Spanish steamer Ciudad de Cadiz.
The dangerous channel Chapicuy in the Rio Uruguay has at last been buoyed; not however by the Government though it has very often been asked to do so, but by Mr. Giuliani the director-manager of the Compania Nacional de Navegacion. Five large buoys have been placed to indicate the channel.
The ss. Shattsworth which several days ago went aground off Martin Garcia, on her voyage from Rosario to La Plata, will on Sunday begin to transfer part of her cargo to lighters, to enable her to get afloat.

The Newcomen is expected to-morrow from Rio in ballast to return thither with 1,900 tons of wheat loaded in this port.

The following vessels are expected to arrive to-morrow:—Lucerne from Glasgow and Liverpool, Rio Negro from Havre, Hornby Grange from Newport and Mark from Southampton.

The lack of sufficient water prevented to-day the departure of the Victoria and Roumania for Dunkirk and Walsenburg for Hamburg.

The ss. Norwood still remains aground in the entrance channel and the Yarowdale met a like fate to-day near buoy No 7 as she was attempting to enter to discharge in Dock No 3.

No news has been received of the River Mersey which on the 25th February left Rio for this port.

The Norwegian ss. Estella has been chartered to take 4,500 tons of Tucuman sugar in bags. She will probably load in Rosario, brokers Houlder Bros. and Co.

The Sirio only left Montevideo to-day at 3 p.m. so cannot enter the La Plata port till to-morrow.

The W. C. Pollock is expected here on Sunday in ballast from Santos to load grain for Falmouth.

The Pelotas left to-day the roads for Rosario to load.

The Lochiel and Cyrene cleared to-day for Liverpool and Antwerp respectively.

The following ss. should leave to-morrow:—Bahia and Hellas for Hamburg, Carolina for Havre, Jessica for Bahia Blanca to load and Bellosa for La Plata to fill up.

The ss. Ashford is expected here in ballast from Macahe, Brazil, to load grain in Rosario for Falmouth. The river-boat Cosmos has left the San Fernando dock and is now ready to renew her trips and has been completely overhauled-painted inside and out, had her hull cleaned and her engines repaired.

Miss Marie Sajnors the lady passenger on board the Bresil, who was attacked by yellow fever on Martin Garcia, died there this morning at 6 o'clock. All the rest of the passengers are well.

It is feared that Robert Scott on the Rodolfo del Viso, suffering from yellow fever, will hardly recover. Gauthier from the Bresil is convalescent.
The Highfield and Sarcuel Tyasack should to-morrow be granted free pratique.

Hon. Medical Officers:—Dr. G. Mackern, 824 Calle Florida.

Dr. J. Dodd, Lomas de Zamora.

Superintendent—Mr. Carson.

Patients are received at all times and specially on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, when the carriage of the Home meets the train at Lomas Station which leaves Plaza Constitucion at 12.30 p.m., so as to convey them and their luggage to the Home.

Private patients pay $4.00 per day; ordinary patients $2 per day.

Recommendations for free orders can be obtained from any member of Committee, but applicants must prove that they have no means wherewith to meet the ordinary charges of the Home.

To obtain the orders for admission recommendation must be taken to the Hon. Medical Officer.

Visitors are allowed to see their friends on Wednesdays and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. and for their convenience a Brake belonging to the Institution will be ready to take to the station the train of the 2.18 train at Lomas (leaving Plaza at 1.45) and take them to the Home and back free of charge.

Subscriptions and donations in aid of the funds of the Home will be thankfully received by the Honorary Treasurer.

RONALD BRIDGETT (Chairman) 385 Reconquista.
